Hurricane Hunter Plane with 11 Persons Aboard Missing

Two Canadian Newsmen Among Those on Flight

Ships, Planes Criss-Cross Ocean In All-Out Search

MIAMI (AP)—Planes and ships criss-crossed the storm-tossed Caribbean today in search of nine Navy fliers and two Canadian newspapermen missing on a daring flight into the eye of 110-mile-an-hour hurricane Janet.

The newsmen joined in a hurricane hunter flight out of Jacksonville, Fla., that last was heard from as it prepared to enter the calm central eye of the hurricane.

They were identified as reporter Alf Tate and photographer Doug Cronk of the Toronto Daily Star. The Star said that Tate and Cronk had been trying for a year to get aboard one of the hurricane hunter planes to write a story and take pictures.

The storm was centered just east-southeast of sparsely populated Swan Island in the Caribbean. The Swan Island weather station sent this urgent message:

"Antennas going down, abandoning station, all hands seeking shelter in Navy building."

As the giant search was organized for the missing Navy Neptune, another hurricane hunter plane flew over the same area on the same difficult assignment of finding Janet's eye.

Failed to Return

At noon Janet was continuing its inclination to speed up and was rolling forward at 20 miles an hour. Highest winds were 110 miles an hour over a small area near the center, but hurricane force winds swept the seas for 40 miles. Gales were noted for 200 miles ahead of the storm on the northern side and 100 miles to the south.

The plane failed to return from the scouting flight into the storm which already has claimed an estimated 200 lives in the Windward Islands. It was the first craft to be missing in the history of the hurricane hunter squadron.

The plane last was heard from by radio as it prepared to enter the eye of the hurricane shortly before noon Monday.

The planes carry two small life rafts, equipped with tiny radio transmitters, dye markers, food, water, fishing tackle and other standard survival equipment, but have no special "hurricane equipment."

The men wear parachute harnesses and can buckle on parachutes within seconds, but doing so would be futile during flights inside hurricanes, made at levels of 1,000 to 1,500 feet. The men do not wear crash helmets.

Stock Market Shows Gains After Monday Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—Led by motors, the stock market registered gains ranging to more than $3 a share today after its worst decline in more than 25 years.

Prices moved higher on volume sharply reduced from the near eight million share pace of Monday's session when the market registered extreme sensitivity to President Eisenhower's illness.

For about three hours the tickers labored far behind the market—the extreme lateness was 19 minutes, most since mid-1950 when the Korean War start gave the market a temporary jolt.

The list registered gains ranging to more than $3 a share in the industrial division. The industrial average rose more than 3 points.

Rails were higher early in the day. Then they dipped only to rally again in the late afternoon.

Trading from 1 p. m. was down sharply from Monday's 2,760,000 shares against 4,430,000 shares for the same period in the previous session.

Among the wider gains at 1:20 p. m. were U. S. Gypsum, up $17.50; International Business Machines up $6; General Motors, up $3; Chrysler up $2.38; Bethlehem Steel up nearly $3; Standard Oil (N.J.) up nearly $3, and Union Carbide, up $2.

Typhoon to Miss Okinawa, Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon Louise whirled her 138-mile-per-hour winds westward today toward the sparsely populated Yuku islands off southern Japan on a course that apparently will miss both the main Japanese islands and the big U. S. base at Okinawa.

The U. S. Air Force weather center here predicted that the howling storm, which crippled the U. S. base at Iwo Jima Sunday, would spin into the East China Sea about 180 miles north of Okinawa and 150 miles south of Kyushu, Japan's southernmost main island.

Nation's Newspapers Agree Eisenhower Will Not Run Again; See Nixon Candidacy

By United Press

A cross-section of the nation's newspapers agreed today that President Eisenhower will probably not run again in 1960.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was the most prominently mentioned substitute candidate.

But others said an Eisenhower candidacy next year is "inconceivable."

Vice President Nixon, who is already taking over some of the President's duties, was regarded by many as the most probable Republican candidate if Mr. Eisenhower bows out.

The closest to an endorsement of an alternate candidate came from the Chicago Sun-Times. It said that if Mr. Eisenhower does not run, the GOP would "do well" to choose Milton S. Eisenhower, the President's brother and the man who could best "mirror his thoughts, ideals, and principles."

Others mentioned were former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, twice GOP candidate for the presidency, and Govs. J. Goodwin Knight of California, Christian Herter of Massachusetts, William Stratton of Illinois and Fred Hall of Kansas.

Still more were Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, and Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Chief Justice Earl Warren of the Supreme Court also drew attention, but it was pointed out that he has previously said he would not run under any conditions.

The broadest predictions on the political effects of Mr. Eisenhower's illness came from newspapers in the South, where Democratic strength is concentrated.

The Tampa Tribune said the Democratic presidential nomination "now begins to look like a guilt-edged pass to the White House" and the Charlotte Observer commented "there are no other 'likes' in the GOP stable."

The Atlanta Constitution warned "the people do not have any great confidence in Vice President Nixon . . . There is grave danger the administration may disintegrate."

He addressed a breakfast meeting of the American Bankers Assn. which is holding its 81st annual convention here.

Shuman said rigid price supports at 90 per cent of parity were established during the war to encourage increased production. But "Congress failed to let the flexible price support plan go into effect after wartime demands were reduced," he said.

"This has been an important factor in the accumulation of surplus farm products which now prevent farmers from sharing in the present rising tide of economic prosperity," he added.

Good Bank Customers

Shuman called for expansion of domestic consumption and increasing "mutually advantageous" foreign trade as a way to "eliminate the huge surplus accumulation that is forcing farm prices downward."

The future of agriculture is still bright, he said, "if we produce for the rapidly expanding consumer market rather than for government storage, his and reduce the role of government in agriculture."

Shuman, a Sullivan, Ill., farmer, told the bankers that in spite of the cost-price squeeze, farmers are still good customers for banks.

Touching on farmers' credit needs, he said "a big problem is the need for more intermediate credit—loans for a year-and-a-half to five years."

"These are the loans that finance machinery purchases, farm improvements and certain soil-building practices which will pay out in time but not immediately," he said.

Shuman Hits Political Farm Pricing by Gov't

Tells Bankers Actions By Congress Factor In Decline of Prices

CHICAGO (AP)—Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said today that the way to improve farm income is to reduce government interference in the pricing and production of farm products.

"Political pricing" actions by Congress have been a large factor in the 24 per cent decline in farm prices which has taken place during the last five years, Shuman said.

He addressed a breakfast meeting of the American Bankers Assn. which is holding its 81st annual convention here.

Shuman said rigid price supports at 90 per cent of parity were established during the war to encourage increased production. But "Congress failed to let the flexible price support plan go into effect after wartime demands were reduced," he said.

Khrushchev Wishes Eisenhower Speedy Recovery in Message

DENVER (AP)—Communist Party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev has sent President Eisenhower a message of "distress" at the latter's illness and wished him a speedy recovery "with all my heart," the temporary White House disclosed today.

Khrushchev's message was one of scores from officials of many foreign countries made public as the President continued to progress in his fight to overcome the damage of a coronary thrombosis suffered early Saturday.

Many of the messages had been made public earlier at various points, including greetings from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and President Klementi Voroshilov of the U. S. S. R.

Many Messages Received

Others included those of Pope Pius XII, President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China, former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee, Korean President Syngman Rhee and scores of others.

Khrushchev's message said: "Recalling our personal meetings in Geneva, I have learned with distress of your illness. I wish you with all my heart a speedy recovery."

The 64-year-old Chief Executive was making satisfactory progress, according to doctors, against the damage done to his heart by a thrombosis—a blood clot—early last Saturday. He drifted off to an easy sleep Monday night, after a visit from his wife.

Mr. Eisenhower's doctors said the President's appearance is that of a healthy man and that he feels so buoyant as a result of the oxygen treatment that he would like to get out of bed and swing a golf club.

At the same time, they said, the President is fully aware of the seriousness of his condition and is following their instructions faithfully.

Resume Work at Two Area Mines

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—Operations were normal today at two southern Illinois coal mines where miners walked out Monday, protesting a change in working hours.

Work was resumed at Truax-Traer Coal Co. Pyramid mine Monday night and production returned to normal today. About 111 miners left their jobs at the Pyramid mine to protest a change in hours that moved their starting and quitting times ahead one hour.

Production also was resumed at United Electric Coal Co. Fidelity strip mine where 130 miners walked out for the same reason Monday.

HOPES FOR EARLY RECOVERY—Vice President Richard Nixon, shown with the President in a recent photo, said in Washington that the business of government will go on as usual during President Eisenhower's illness. Nixon said the President, who was stricken with a heart attack at Denver, had set up the administration in such a way that it will continue its policies during his temporary absence. Nixon expressed his hope, along with all the American people, that the President will have an early and complete recovery. (NEA Telephoto)

Secret Service Expands Vice President Guard

New Role as Acting President is Unofficial, Informal

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, in his new role as unofficial "acting president," conferred today with the government's top financial officers and the Republican party's chief political strategist.

The Secret Service detail guarding the vice president was expanded and put on a round-the-clock basis.

With three newly assigned bodyguards trailing him, Nixon arrived at his office at the Capitol at 8:10 a. m. CST. His first visitor was Budget Director Rowland H. Hughes, who spent half an hour briefing Nixon on budget problems that are due to come up at Friday's Cabinet meeting.

Nixon will preside over the Cabinet meeting and also over a meeting of the National Security Council Thursday.

Brownell Comes Home

Both meetings will be at the White House.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall followed Hughes into Nixon's office.

After his political huddle with Hall, Nixon had a lunch date with Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey at Humphrey's office in the Treasury Department.

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., who was in Europe when Mr. Eisenhower was stricken Saturday, returned to the capital to take up legal problems raised by the President's enforced absence.

Brownell told reporters the Justice Department will "move promptly" in deciding what can legally be done about delegating some of Mr. Eisenhower's duties and powers while he is confined to bed.

The word from Denver, however, was that there was no present plan to make any formal, legalistic delegation of presidential powers to Nixon.

Nixon's Unofficial Role

Since the Constitution does not provide for any such office as "acting president," Nixon's new role was unofficial and informal. There were hints that it probably will rest there unless Mr. Eisenhower has a relapse or repeat heart attack.

Nixon met with presidential chief of staff Sherman Adams, Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and other White House personnel Monday to work out arrangements for smooth government functioning during Mr. Eisenhower's illness.

They agreed to call a Friday cabinet meeting and that announcement was made by the White House, but in Nixon's name. In Denver it was not felt necessary even to advise Mr. Eisenhower of it. The point was made here and in Denver, that the role of Nixon and Adams, as chief of staff, in this situation merely follows a pattern established when the President previously has been absent or ill.

Moreover, it is a personal and not a legalistic delegation of authority.

Question Under Study

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told Denver newsmen that the question of delegation of power was under study but that there was "nothing in the immediate future requiring the delegation of presidential powers or the signature of the President."

The situation in Washington was further eased by the fact that Mr. Eisenhower is reported in full possession of his faculties and may be able to receive an official visitor or two and to sign essential papers in a matter of a fortnight or less.

The new roles of Nixon and Adams are less a sign of crisis here than of an easy and temporary adjustment to meet an unusual and presumably temporary situation.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: World, National Repercussions From Eisenhower Health.

WASHINGTON. — Here are the chief world and national repercussions likely to result from the President's illness:

1. A sag in the stock market—Wall Street buying has boomed partly on the anticipation of five more years of Republican friend-to-business rule. Part of the boom has been psychological. Today the money operators know that Ike's now inevitable retirement from the 1956 race means a tough election with the odds on Democratic victory. So a sag in the stock market can be expected.

2. Less smiles with the Russians—The Kremlin had far more confidence in Eisenhower than in Dulles, and rightly so. The secretary of state has been mildly at odds with his chief at times over too much friendship with Russia. At Geneva, Dulles tugged at Ike's coat-tails to hold him back. Eisenhower is more a believer in people-to-people friendship than old-fashioned diplomacy. Dulles isn't. So the new chapter of trying to get along with Russia may end with Eisenhower on the sidelines, though it's likely to continue between the Kremlin and other nations, which would tend to isolate the United States.

3. New boss in Washington — The man sure to emerge as the policy-maker in Washington during Eisenhower's recuperation period is Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey. He will make major policy.

The man who will carry out that policy and handle detailed administration is Sherman Adams, sometimes called assistant president.

WHO RUNS WASHINGTON

Actually this is nothing new. Eisenhower has been absent from the White House on the present Denver vacation longer than any other recent president, and all administrative work has been handled during that time by Sherman Adams. Even when Eisenhower was in Washington, Secretary Humphrey sets major policy, while Adams handles both major and minor policy.

It was Humphrey, not Secretary of Defense Wilson, who decided the defense budget must be cut. It was Humphrey, not Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who decided the American cotton surplus could not be dumped abroad at cheaper prices. And it was Humphrey, not the State Department, who curtailed loans through the Export-Import Bank.

4. Pressure on Chief Justice — The one Republican who stands out as the most potent to win in 1956 is Earl Warren, now on the Supreme Court, completely aloof from the political merry-go-round. Warren has made it clear he would not leave the court to run for the presidency. However, with Eisenhower's health eliminating him as a candidate, the pressure on Warren is going to be terrific.

Warren had an outstanding record as governor of California, won the friendship of many Democrats, alienated some standpat Republicans. He would be hard for the Democrats to beat.

However, Warren follows the thinking of the late Chief Justice Fred Vinson, who, though Truman wanted him to run, refused to get the Supreme Court into politics. Warren also had an operation a few years ago which his political enemies made much of. Whether it was as serious as they indicated is not known.

THE YOUNG MEN

If Warren doesn't step down from the bench, as doesn't seem likely, the GOP dark horses Eisenhower himself has privately picked for grooming as possible nominees include:

Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey, who defeated the McCarthyites in that state; Gov. George Craig of Indiana; William Rogers, deputy attorney general; Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington; Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to the United Nations.

Practiced politicians in the Republican party probably wouldn't agree with Eisenhower that these men, many of them not well known, would have appeal to the voting public.

More likely to be in the running when the Republicans meet at San Francisco 11 months from now are the men who head up the big states with heavy delegations behind them, such as Gov. William Stratton of Illinois, Gov. Goodwin Knight of California, Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts. The final result of Eisenhower's illness is the certain renewal of the old feud between the Taft and Dewey wings of the GOP. Smoldering since Taft's death, it has never died. Whether it flares quickly or belatedly will depend on whether Tom Dewey now returns from his trip around the world and stays in the USA for the purpose of grooming the next GOP candidate for president.

Ohio Postpones Showdown Meeting On Vehicle Licenses

SPRINGFIELD — Ohio today postponed its showdown meeting with Illinois on motor vehicle license reciprocity, sending notice the meeting would be held "soon."

Illinois Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter called on Ohio to drop its "adamant demand" that Illinois agree to pay the state's axle-mile tax by Illinois trucks with three or more axles.

Carpenter released the telegram from Ohio Utilities Commission Chairman Robert L. Oulton stating Ohio's Reciprocity Board could not be here today for the meeting but "we wish to meet with you soon."

Carpenter said although Ohio still is charging Illinois trucks the axle-mile tax, he would take no action against Ohio vehicles pending the meeting.

Doerge Elected President Of Art League

Forty photographic studios exhibited at the semi-annual meeting of the Southern Illinois Art League held Monday at the Kurto Country club, Harrisburg.

Photographs were exhibited in seven classifications with Ronnie's Studio of Harrisburg getting the blue ribbon award in the group classification. Photograph exhibited was taken during the 1952 Elks Minstrel. Ronnie also received second in the pictorial classification, a photograph of "Chetta" the trained monkey that was in Harrisburg a few years ago with the Tex Ritter show.

Winners in other classifications—Rissi studio of Collinsville, brides and pictorial; Pilon studio of Champaign, commercial and women; Delo Craft studio of Mt. Vernon, men; Mohler studio of Murphysboro, children.

The commercial photograph entered by Pilon was selected as the top exhibit in the show.

Ronnie Doerge, Harrisburg, is the new president of the group. Other officers are Mrs. Norcross of Benton, vice president, and Harvey Mohler of Murphysboro, secretary-treasurer.

During the morning session G. W. Maglinger, master photographer from Owensboro, Ky., addressed the meeting and in the afternoon the group heard Mrs. Virginia Stern of Kansas City, Mo.

The spring meeting of the Southern Illinois Art League, which is comprised of photographers in southern Illinois and the St. Louis area, will be held March 5 in Benton.

The Declaration of Independence first was published in the Pennsylvania Evening Post, on July 6, 1776.

In a nation-wide survey, 77% of the people interviewed couldn't define a common stock correctly. This advertisement explains common stock. We hope you'll find it informative and worthwhile.

What is a common stock ... and why?

1. You're part owner of a company when you buy its stock. How big an owner depends on how many shares you have. Some companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange have hundreds of thousands of share owners.

2. What you get as a share owner is, first, the opportunity of receiving dividends—a return on your investment (many companies pay them every three months). How big the dividend is—and whether it is justified by earnings—is decided by the company's board of directors. You also share in the company's growth. If it prospers, the price of its stock probably will go up.

3. What risks you take. Naturally, there's a risk in putting money into any business. When the company you've invested in does not prosper, the price of your stock probably will go down—and, of course, dividends may not be paid.

4. How many stocks are "listed"? Not all stocks can be bought and sold on the New York Stock Exchange. Only those of about 1,200 companies are listed. The facts about these are made public, since a listed company must agree to publish at least one complete financial statement every year and, in most cases, quarterly reports.

Before you invest, get the facts.

Investing is a serious business. There is no place for rent money in the stock market. So before you put your money into stocks, be sure you have taken care of other financial needs and have adequate savings for emergencies. And be certain, too, to get the help of a partner or a registered representative of a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. He can supply you with information about the 1,522 common and preferred stocks and the 739 corporate bonds listed on the Exchange. He'll be glad to help you plan an investment program with out cost or obligation.

Learned From Indians
There is evidence to prove that the Indians were adept at maple sugar making before the coming of the white man. The whites learned the art from the aborigines and imitated their process of tapping the trees and boiling down the sap.

Ex-Wife of Stevenson Says Home Ransacked

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson, ex-wife of the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, reported today her home had been ransacked by burglars she believes were interested in her personal papers.

Mrs. Stevenson said Sheriff Stanley M. Christian notified her Thursday that her home in Lake County had been broken into and "thoroughly ransacked." The burglary occurred sometime after last Wednesday afternoon, when she moved to her town house here.

Mrs. Stevenson said items stolen included an empty 300-pound safe, rugs, stationery, files, and a Polar bear skin. She said her desks were rifled and it was "obvious" the burglars were searching for "something specific."

She said she found the house had been entered again when she returned Saturday, and while she was sleeping Sunday night someone tried to pry open the trunk of her parked car.

Mrs. Stevenson warned that hereafter anyone found on the premises after dark will be given "one warning to halt."

"If this is not heeded, he will be shot without further notice," Mrs. Stevenson said.

French Visitors Say U.S. Hubbies Spoil Their Wives

By PATRICIA WIGGINS

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Six visiting French women agree that American men are "spoiled" and "spoiled by their husbands."

The ladies also express dismay at the litter on American streets, delight at corn-on-the-cob and other American food, and wonder whether "so much television for American children is good." But the French women find it difficult to form an opinion on American men.

The likes, dislikes and no opinion were voiced recently when the six women leaders from France met reporters after a two-month stay in this country under the sponsorship of the Women's Bureau of the Labor Department and the Foreign Operations Administration.

A woman reporter suggested that American women are concerned about the disappearance of chivalry in American males. She asked the ladies from France what they thought.

"Oh," said attractive Mrs. Martha Enderle-Wurtz, a department store director from Strasburg. "The American husband really spoils his wife... the American woman is a queen in her home."

The five others nodded enthusiastically when her reply was translated. But there was a silence when they were asked for more comment on American men.

Mrs. Enderle explained with a smile, "do not forget we were invited by American women and did not meet many American men."

"We were always in a car with the president of a women's club," blonde Miss Bernadette De Lignieres said softly.

The women spent most of their stay visiting institutions in line with their jobs as social workers, lawyers, budget officer, and department store director. But they also were guests in some American homes.

That's where questions on American food, television, and American women's clothes came in.

Bernadette, a lawyer and the only woman judge in Strasburg, confessed to developing a "soft spot" for corn-on-the-cob, which she said, through an interpreter, "I consumed extensively."

Early Pennant Victory Did Not Cool Brooks

By DIZZY DEAN
As told to Jimmy Breslin
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—A baseball rule Ol' Diz has established through experience says that the team coming off a hot pennant fight has the best set of hands when they start mixing it in the World Series.

Brooklyn won the National League pennant extra early this year and the team they face in the Series—the Yankees—didn't know where they'd be on Sept. 23 until the final week of the season.

But I figure my rule goes out the window this time on account of this bunch of fellas Walter Alton has put together has too much all down the line for the Yankees.

I had a good look at Brooklyn this season while handling the microphone for CBS' televised "Game of the Week." And I saw a team which figures to beat the Yankees hands.

The big fellas on this team are Don Newcombe and Roy Campanella.

This Newcombe is a real good pitcher. I figure he can do just about anything he feels like doing with a baseball. I like that kind of a pitcher because I was the same way—except, of course, it was only natural, seeing as I was the best pitcher the game ever seen back in 1934 and thereabouts when I was great.

That was the year, you'll remember, when I won 30 games and it took a lot of luck or bad fielding to cause my seven defeats. I had some great days at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field, too, especially the time my brother Paul pitched a no-hitter and I pitched a three-hitter during a doubleheader.

I figure Newcombe can win twice for the Brooklyn's, providing he wants to and I guess he feels that way. And I also say this catcher of theirs, Roy Campanella, is the guy the Yankees could do without.

Campanella, besides being a good man with the glove, is a real hit. You got on book on this chubby guy. He hits the fences regular, but he thinks a single or double is just fine when there's men on bases.

Right around here, you're probably wondering about this Duke Snider. Well, I'm not taking away anything from Snider and that big record of his, but I think I could handle Snider. I'd give him that fast ball, high and inside—and real fast—and he wouldn't hurt anybody in a seven-game Series. I know he was extra wonderful in the 1952 Series, but I have to put Snider alongside Mickey Mantle in this one. Neither should go to town off good pitching.

Bull Dogs, Eagles, Both Unbeaten, Meet Friday in Week's Top Game

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, victors in their first South Seven game, 32-6, at Marion last week, go out of the loop again Friday night to meet the Eldorado Eagles in what should be the game of the week (and could be the game of the year) in southern Illinois high school football.

Both teams are undefeated. Harrisburg opened with a 13-6 win over Murphysboro, Eldorado a 26-5 victory over Anna-Jonesboro. Last week Eldorado trounced McLeansboro, 41-0.

The game at Eldorado will be Harrisburg defense and power versus an exceedingly clever and fast backfield behind a good line. Eldorado's Ronnie Clark at fullback baffled Harrisburg in the Eagles' win over the Bull Dogs at Taylor Field last year. The locals waited to see who had the ball and started after the carrier. Then it was too late.

Eldorado has Bob Potts and Acie Gwaltney back to go along with Clark in the speed section of the backfield and Coach Al Adams has pulled Lindell Lovellette out of the line and placed him at fullback. The huge Lovellette has done so well in two games that he has nicknamed him "The Horse."

Harrisburg so far has shown plenty of defense, good passing, good running at times, but there is still much lacking in a precise, consistent, polished running attack.

Against McLeansboro, Eldorado made 324 yards running and 119 passing, and played without Potts, who had suffered a rib injury.

Bigger upset of last week's play was at Mt. Vernon, where the Herin Tigers humbled the Rams, 40-6. The Rams were regarded as a slight favorite with a heavy line and fast backs.

But the Tigers charged through

Stengel Juggles Lineup for World Series with Mantle, Rizzuto His Big Problems

NEW YORK — Manager Casey Stengel was juggling the starting lineup of the favored New York Yankees today, with Mickey Mantle and Phil Rizzuto his big problems on the eve of the first game of the World Series against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Stengel's worries, chiefly about Mantle's injured leg, were responsible for a slight reduction in the odds favoring the Yanks to win the opening game from 13-10 down to 6-5. But New York remained a 13-10 choice to win the world championship for the sixth time in seven years.

"I don't know who's in the outfield and I don't know who's in the infield," Stengel admitted. "But I do know I got two pitchers ready—Whitey Ford and Tommy Byrne."

Pint-sized Ford, a southpaw who won 18 games and lost seven and has "a lot of nerve," according to Stengel, is certain to start Wednesday's game at Yankee Stadium. He will be opposed by huge Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's blazing right-hander with the best won-lost record in the major leagues—20 victories against only five defeats.

Mantle injured a thigh muscle on Sept. 23 and hasn't played since although he has taken batting practice. Stengel said the final decision on the star center fielder may not be made until just a few minutes before Wednesday's 1 p. m. EDT game time.

Rizzuto Reported Weary
Rizzuto, who will be playing in his ninth World Series, is an uncertain starter at shortstop for the Yankees simply because of weariness. If Stengel doesn't think tiny Phil is ready, skinny Jerry Coleman will start at short. If Mantle isn't ready, then Irv Noren could get the call in center field—or perhaps it might be Bob Cerv.

By contrast, Manager Walter Alton—making his first appearance as a series pilot—has the Dodgers' opening game lineup all set. It features seven right-handed hitters to face the southpaw slants of Ford, with only big Duke Snider and Newcombe batting left-handed. Alton is expected to keep the same lineup for the second game when Byrne, another southpaw, is the probable Yankee hurler.

The rivals both had workouts

Eaglets Romp Over Carbondale, 25-0

The Eldorado Eaglets romped to a 25-0 victory over Carbondale in a "B" squad football game Monday night. The game was played on the Eldorado gridiron.

Eldorado moved out in front with three TDs in the first half and counted again in the third quarter.

Top scoring play of the game was an 80-yard TD gallop by Feunquay, Eaglet quarterback. Eldorado's Eaglets will meet the Harrisburg Bull Pups at Taylor Field next Monday in a return game. The two met at Eldorado Sept. 19, with the Pups winners by a score of 18-7.

Five Army Buddies Of Billy Martin to Be His Guests at Series

FORT CARSON, Colo. — Five of second baseman Billy Martin's World Series as guests of the New York Yankees, it was announced today. Martin, who will be charged after the series ends, was given an extended leave to compete in the world championship against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

the bigger boys all night, and Quarterback Mim McPherson handed off well to Charlie Hamilton, Ron Gray and Gerald Jeralds, who went through for fine gains.

From scrimmage, Herrin made 375 yards to 132 for Mt. Vernon. Said the Mt. Vernon Register-News about the game:

"In going down to convincing defeat, the Rams bore small resemblance to the rollicking crew which rolled over Chester, 34-0, just one week earlier."

As Coach Noble Thomas remarked following the defeat, "It's a little hard to believe that we had the same boys on the field to night who looked so good against Chester. I take nothing away from Herrin—they played great ball—but if we had performed up to last week's level, it could have been a different story."

Time Runs Out on Rangers

The Centralia 12-0 win over Benton also was regarded somewhat as an upset. The Centralia Sentinel says that Benton's lone threat came toward the end of the game, which ended when time ran out with the Rangers two yards away from a tally.

First Orphan tally came when Sylvester Hutcherson, on a reverse, raced to score. Second came after Jerry Ritter, right end, snatched a Benton fumble out of the air and ran 45 yards before he stumbled on the B-5. Then Larry McGreavey, Centralia's fullback, smashed through to score.

Centralia made 124 yards rushing and none by passing. Benton 69 rushing and 25 passing for a total of 85 yards from scrimmage.

In West Frankfort's 27-14 upset of Johnston City Thursday night in a non-conference game, the winners scored four touchdowns in the second quarter to put the contest on ice.

WSIL to Televis World Series

Harrisburg Station WSIL-TV (UHF Channel 22) will televise the World Series between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers direct from Yankee Stadium and Ebbets Field, the home of the Dodgers.

The entire series will be televised, it was announced today. Week-day games will start at 11 a. m. and the Sunday game at 12:05 p. m. Harrisburg time.

Arrangements were made by the local station with the National Broadcasting Co. to handle the World Series. The telecast will be picked up at Evansville and beamed to the Harrisburg station by microwave. To get a strong signal, WSIL-TV has set up a microwave relay station near the Ohio river north of Shawnee town.

scheduled today—but at each other's ballpark. The switch was made by mutual agreement to enable the players to become more familiar with the strange territory. That means the Dodgers covet today in spacious Yankee Stadium, scene of the first two games. The famed Brooklyn right-handed slugger—Roy Campanella, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo—will be testing their aim at the distant left field seats.

Meanwhile, the Yankees will be drilling in cramped Ebbets Field, where the series shifts on Friday for the third, fourth, and fifth games. They'll find out just how much closer those walls in Brooklyn are.

Manager Alton, anxious to lead the Dodgers to their first World Series championship in eight tries and to end the "spell" of five World Series losses to the Yankees, is also beset with health problems. Furillo In Bed

Right-fielder Furillo, the "hot test" Dodger hitter in the final month of the season, had to remain in bed all day Monday with a sinus attack, but Alton said, "I'm pretty sure he'll be ready." And Clem Labine, ace of Brooklyn's relief pitching staff, reported he was feeling "punk." The Dodger trainers were watching crew-cut Clem closely to see if he was coming down with a virus.

Indications are that Stengel plans to follow Ford and Byrne by using right-hander Bob Turley, his strike ace, in the third game of the series—the first to be played in Brooklyn. Don Larsen, who missed Monday's Yankee drill because of a cold, seems headed for the start in the fourth game.

Alton has more trouble than Stengel in lining up a pitching order. He says that "right now" right-hander Billy Loes, a 10-game winner, figures as his starting pitcher for the second game with right-hander Carl Erskine, an 11-game winner, going in the third. Erskine set a series record during the 1953 classic by striking out 14 Yankees in one game, but has been plagued with arm trouble this year and hasn't pitched in peak form for months.

As for the fourth game, Alton's pitching plans seem to depend on how the series stands then. If Brooklyn is leading, the assignment could go to either of two left-handers, sore-ribbed Johnny Podres or rookie Karl Spooner. But if the Dodgers are losing, it's almost imperative that Alton call on Newcombe to pitch again with only two days rest to save things.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Last week this column ran the scores for the past ten years in the football series, Harrisburg vs. Murphysboro and Harrisburg-Marion, and the information was well received. So we are doing it again—giving the scores for the past decade of the Harrisburg-Eldorado games, with a brief note on the scoring.

1945—Eldorado 13, Harrisburg 7, played at Eldorado on Thanksgiving Day. Gene Haile, now Eldorado freshman coach, scored two TDs and Hancock scored for Harrisburg.

1946—Eldorado 7, Harrisburg 6, played at Harrisburg on Thanksgiving Day. Ego scored Eldorado's TD and Holderfield the point. Cummins scored Harrisburg's TD. This was the last of the Thanksgiving Day games.

1947—Harrisburg 23, Eldorado 0, played at Eldorado. VanderPlum scored three TDs, Taylor and Cummins one each and Moore drop-kicked three extra points.

1948—Harrisburg 20, Eldorado 0, VanderPlum, Roper and Ashe scored for Harrisburg, all point-making coming in the second half.

1949—Harrisburg 7, Eldorado 0. The lone touchdown was scored by Val Gibbons in the third quarter.

1950—Harrisburg 12, Eldorado 0. This was the game when Harrisburg Memorial Stadium was dedicated. Harrisburg's TDS came in the closing part of the last quarter, one on a pass from Ziegler to Stout and the other on a 12-yard run by Howard.

1951—Harrisburg 19, Eldorado 8. Eldorado grabbed an early 8-0 lead on a TD pass, Bridgick to Phelps, and a safety when Griffiths of Harrisburg was tackled behind the goal line. Harrisburg rallied with three TDs, one each by Howard, Shevmake and Griffiths.

1952—Eldorado 13, Harrisburg 6. Younger went 60 yards for one Eldorado TD and the other came on a Davenport-to-Ford pass. Hinant passed to Frederick for the Bull Dogs' score.

1953—Harrisburg 20, Eldorado 7. Golden, Westbrook and Riegel scored for Harrisburg in the first half. Barrett passed to Mackovjak in the last half for the Eagle score.

1954—Eldorado 19, Harrisburg 13. Sutton scored twice for Eldorado and Gwaltney once. Beal and Trammel counted for Harrisburg.

1955—See Saturday's edition of the Harrisburg Daily Register.

Last week's "you pick 'em" resulted in a four-way tie, with four entrants picking seven winners, losing two and having one tie. However, we will give the crown to Ronnie Riegel, as a result of his score on the "game of the week."

Being we're Riegel, now a student at SIU, Leighann Walker of Carrier Mills, Dick Lehr of Bridgeport, formerly at Carrier Mills, and Ira Stille of Harrisburg.

The way we finally decided Riegel was the winner was in this manner—each picked Benton to win over Centralia and were wrong as Centralia picked up a 12-0 decision. In picking the score Riegel gave Benton 13 to Centralia's 7, a spread of only 6 points incorrectly. The other three in the running for the championship were "wronger" in the point spread.

Congratulations Ronnie!

This week's "you pick 'em." Just circle the winner of the first nine games listed, then give the winner and score of the "game of the week," send it to The Daily Register and you are officially in the game. No entry fee, no prize, just fun. Get your entries to The Register before 4 p. m. Friday.

Doug Ford Wins Carling Tourney

NEWTON, Mass. —PGA champion Doug Ford topped the $7,000 Carling golf tournament first prize to his impressive array of trophies today.

The 33-year-old Ford slammed a three-under-par 69 at Charles River Country Club Monday to post a winning 72-hole total of 276 in the $43,000 classic.

Ford, who plays out of Kiamasha Lake, N. Y., went into the fourth round with a two-stroke lead over Freddie Haas of Claremont, Calif., and Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa.

Second best honors, including $3,750, went to Wall who shot a four-under par 68 in carding his 277.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the Master's champion, played exceptional clutch golf in the final rounds and registered a 278 in qualifying for third prize of $2,800.

Haas, who got to a fine start on opening day with a memorable 67, finished up with 280.

But the man who came up with the tourney's best round, though he carded a fifth-place 283, was Leo Biagetti of Willoughby, Ohio. Biagetti blazed a scorching six-under-par 66 to come within a stroke of tying the competitive course record.

Bull Pups Coast to 34-0 Win Over Marion Before Good Crowd

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, with a strong, fast running attack, piled up a 21-0 lead against the Marion freshman-sophomore team in the first quarter and coasted to a 34-0 win at Taylor Field last night.

There was a good-sized crowd on hand for a frosh-soph ball game and the partisan crowd was satisfied with the showing, and with Coaches Ben Chamness and Jim Beers letting about all the boys suited up get into the action.

Harrisburg rolled up a total of 284 yards from scrimmage—227 by rushing and 57 by passing. Marion made 77 rushing and 7 passing for an 84-yard total.

Harrisburg completed two out of six passes and had one intercepted. Marion completed one out of six and had three intercepted—all by defensive center, Jack Simpson.

Score in 48 Seconds

Harrisburg had eight first downs to seven for Marion and the locals were outperformed, 45 yards to 10. It didn't take the locals but 48 seconds to score their first touchdown. Eddie Price received the opening kickoff on his 25 and raced 31 yards to the M-44. On the first play from scrimmage Donald Biggs, an outstanding runner during the time he was in the game, scooted 44 yards to score. Bob Clark plunged for the extra point.

Simpson intercepted a Marion pass on the M-25 to set up the second tally. Biggs raced 21 yards to the four and after a two-yard gain, Price went over. Clark again went through for the extra point. Clark passed to Biggs for 51 yards, the blond speedster going to the 16, to set up the third tally of the quarter. Biggs raced 12 yards to the 2 and Stone went through to score.

Price made the fourth touchdown in the second quarter. Simpson intercepted another Marion pass on the M-36. Then Price ran 5, a Biggs-to-Yates pass was good for six and Biggs ran 11 to the 14. Ronnie Rauh ran six to the 8 and Price went the remaining distance. Block Marion Point

Final touchdown came early in the third quarter. The Pups blocked a Marion punt which was recovered on the M-24. Price went 6 to the 18 and Biggs raced 18 yards to score. Mike Walker plunged for the extra point making the final count 34-0.

The first team on offense consisted of Bud Logan and Bill Yates at ends, Ray Hassett and Dale

The coaches used lots of substitutes, and they included Phillip Foster, Joe Ford, Zan Hefner, Don Pickford, Don Biggs, A. J. Bryant, Gary Leverett, Darrell Duke, DeWayne Martin, Mike Woolcott, Darrell Biggs, David Dalton, Bruce Roper, Bobby Pavelonis, Leland Druce, Carl Fleming and Larry Henshaw.

Caroline Talks Salary Terms with Montreal Alouettes

MONTREAL — All-American J. C. Caroline, turned away by one Canadian pro football team because his price tag was too high, talked salary with the Montreal Alouettes today.

The University of Illinois star was released by the Toronto Argonauts last week because his pass catching and defensive abilities allegedly didn't measure up to his $15,000 contract.

Alouette General Manager Vic Obeck agreed that $15,000 was too much to pay for a rookie.

"We're not interested in Caroline, or anybody else, for that kind of salary," Obeck said. "If he's willing to talk salary along the lines of what our backs are being paid, we'd certainly like to sign him."

Sam Etcheverry, Montreal's quarterback and a former Denver star, currently draws the highest salary on the team, estimated at between $12,000 and $15,000. The other backs probably make an average of between $5,000 and $6,000.

Even if Caroline makes a deal with the Alouettes, Montreal would have to wait until waivers on him expire Wednesday. Until then, Ottawa and Hamilton have first crack at the Illinois speedster.

World corn production for 1954-55 is estimated at more than five and one-half billion bushels.

HART'S

Who Rides With Wyatt

by Will Henry

Illustrated by H.E.A. Copyright 1954, 1955 by Will Henry. Used by arrangement with Doubleday

Dec. 13th, a likely date for such unlucky doings, the rustlers met in executive session at the McLowry's Sulphur Springs ranch. They sat as their own grand jury, Judge William Brocius presiding.

What they did was to scrawl out a list of lawmen and others that weren't going to be allowed to leave town alive. The original masterpiece was worked out on the back of a tomato can label by Curly Bill.

Delivery of the lists, through contacts inside the town, was carried out that same night. Clum got his first.

But let old Clum wait. Wyatt is our man. It's when he got his copy of the death list that the fur really began to fly.

Virg and Morg were up and around but still stiff with their wounds. The worst of the outlaws, Ringo and Curly Bill, were yet at large. Johnny Behan had taken a setback but would never let up until he had got out a warrant he could serve and make stick. Doc was a very sick man, likely to go out with the lung fever before spring. The town, taken by and large, was still in sympathy with Johnny Behan and his "poor cowboys."

There was no light showing in the shack when Wyatt came up to it. Lilly let him, in the dark, shut the door hurriedly, then lit the single candle back of the bath curtain. He could smell the wick smoke of it lingering in the close air of the little room, knew from that she had blown it out when she heard him coming.

"You're scared, girl," he frowned, sensing the fear in the very look of her. "What's all the hush about?"

"Wyatt, I am scared!" she whispered. "This time I'm really scared. Look at this!" She held out the crumpled piece of ruled notepaper to him.

It wasn't addressed to anybody and it wasn't signed. All it said was:

"Don't bother to try leaving for you'll not make it now."

"You've killed your last cow boy."

"Where'd you get it?" said Wyatt at last.

"Ringo," she said, and watched the heatless fire leap higher behind his empty stare. "He said it was for you."

Old Beatty Comstock disappeared sometime before dawn of the 14th, fading out like the cloud of Apache war smoke Wyatt had likened him to. He was seen no more in Tombstone. Mayor John Clum, stiff-backed about it but still limber enough in the head to buy Wyatt's warning, boarded that night's Benson stage eight miles out of Tombstone.

Virgil and Morgan would have no part of any retreat which Wyatt wasn't a party to. It isn't known what Doc Holliday said but it's a known fact that midnight of the 14th saw him sitting square in the middle of a table-stakes game at the Crystal Palace, betting his cards high and waiting with his pistol in his lap for any of the Sulphur Springs boys to put their bullets where their billy-doos were.

But the gang had a cushier spot for their lead. At 11 a. m. of the 14th, five hours out of Tombstone, the Benson stage ran into a cross-buck of blasting rifles.

That run carried no mail sack, no express box, no payroll pouch, no bullion shipment. All it carried was Mayor J. P. Clum. And 12 of the 14 shots fired went thru the tonneau where he was sitting.

It was not until he made his regular stop in Contention City that driver Winters found he'd lost his passenger—Mayor Clum was gone.

Before morning Tombstone was hashing over the news that its mayor had been kidnapped, was still missing and had to be presumed dead.

But John Clum was a long ways from getting measured for his pine tuxedo. Not trusting Whistling Dick to get his horses back under way before the ambushers could catch up to the coach, he had slipped out of it and into the brush, made his way, afoot, to the Grand Central Mine's stamp mill, borrowed a horse from the super, ridden a long circle on the remaining 20 miles to the railroad at Benson. He was there by daylight and didn't miss his train.

Just at 11 p. m., Dec. 28, Virg was nailed coming out of the Oriental Saloon. He was rushed to Doc Goodfellow's office where it was found his left arm had been shredded with a charge of No. 2 gooseshot fired from no more than 30 feet. Tombstone's town marshal would never use his left arm again. Incapacitated for his job with elections but days away, Virg was all through as a peace officer in Arizona. He was replaced at once by Dave Neagle, one of Johnny Behan's longtime deputies.

Wyatt now moved his wounded brother from Doc Goodfellow's office into a room at the Cosmopolitan Hotel. He and Morg each took a room that flanked Virg's. A flop-house cockroach couldn't have got up that hotel corridor without he was stopped and gone over for a gun by the Safety Committee vigilantes who swarmed outside.

But time—and telegrams—are sometimes things which had shown a previous habit of horning in on Wyatt's fate. Mayor Clum had stayed with that Benson train, clean to Washington, D. C.

Canada Complains Of U. S. Farm Disposal Program

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian government spokesmen told four members of President Eisenhower's cabinet Monday the U. S. farm disposal program threatens to destroy world confidence in the North American grain markets. Trade Minister C. D. Howe said Monday night.

Howe told a press conference following the day-long session of the joint U. S.-Canadian Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs that "at least we understand each other."

He said Canada's plainly-voiced complaints about U. S. disposal methods had a sympathetic hearing from the U. S. team, which included Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

An official source said the conference included some of the "plainest talk ever heard in an international conference room."

Dulles headed the U. S. team, which also included Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey and Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks. The U. S. officials returned home Monday night.

Mother of Kidnaped Baby Returns Home from Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mrs. Hanna Marcus, 29, returned home Monday without the baby born to her less than two weeks ago.

Mrs. Marcus left Mt. Zion hospital as police pressed the search for her infant son, Robert, stolen from his crib in the hospital nursery. Her husband, Dr. Sanford Marcus, 34, gave permission for her return to their new home when he decided she had recovered enough from her shock to be moved.

The Marcus' other two children, Richard, 3, and Susan, 2, will be brought to the suburban Daly City home later in the week when their rooms are finished.

Both Marcus and his wife were convinced that the buxom blonde who stole their baby a week ago Monday "is holed up a couple of blocks" from Mt. Zion hospital. Again he begged the abductor to return the baby. He emphasized that he bore her no malice, and would not sign a complaint.

Phantom Killer, Lovers' Lane Slayer Executed

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP)—The notorious "phantom killer" of the Pennsylvania Turnpike and a youthful lovers' lane slayer went calmly to their deaths in the electric chair Monday night, closing the books on two of the state's most bizarre murder cases.

First to enter the death chamber at Rockview Penitentiary was baby-faced George L. Capps, 23, Levittown, convicted of the fatal shooting of Marta Marie Gibbons, 15, a neighbor, in a lover's lane after she resisted his advances.

John Wesley Wable, 28, maintaining to the end that "I ain't going to die, I'll be here a long time yet," followed him minutes later. Wable had been condemned to death for the slaying of a Virginia truck driver who lay dozing in his parked tractor trailer on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Irwin.

The two partakers in death met for the first time Monday afternoon when they entered the penitentiary death row. They spoke casually to each other during their final meal—braised ham chunks, brown gravy, boiled potatoes,

Boy, 9, Admits Accidentally Killing Playmate

MASON CITY, Iowa (AP)—A 9-year-old boy has confessed killing his 8-year-old playmate when a stolen gun accidentally went off in their makeshift playhouse, police said today.

State's Atty. William Pappas said the older boy admitted the slaying after the body of his freckle-faced friend, Darrell Sherrill, was found in a weed patch Monday.

All indications point to an accidental killing, Pappas said, but the boy's story will be thoroughly checked. He refused to reveal the boy's name.

Hundreds of Boy Scouts, deputies, and state police searched the Mason City area for four days after Darrell disappeared while on his way home from the farm home of a playmate Friday night. Two National Guardsmen finally found the body on the farm two miles north of Mason City.

Byrd Proposes Use Of Antarctic as Deep Freeze for Farm Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, famed Polar explorer, has proposed that the United States utilize the frigid Antarctic as a gigantic "deep freeze" for its vast surplus farm crops.

Byrd said Monday he has already discussed the idea with government officials. They were "favorably disposed" to it, he said.

Byrd, as familiar as any man alive with the Antarctic, will lead a new expedition to the South Pole in November.

40-hour work week employees is legally free to strike. Early returns from the strike vote were expected within a week and the count was expected to be completed within two weeks. Negotiators for the railroads refused to comment on the union announcement.
